RONNIE PIROVINO

Ronnie Pirovino is actively fusing two parallel career tracks in digital media and art, having found significant success in both areas. In creative technology, he has won numerous awards for designing and producing high-profile online marketing campaigns for entertainment properties; in art, his collection is world-renowned and has influence among collectors.

With an international social media following on Instagram, he crafts his own distinct brand, harnessing his marketing expertise on his own art projects and endeavors. In this regard, he has recently been mentioned as a leading art collector in The Wall Street Journal.

In late 2018, Pirovino and Heritage Auctions conducted a historic single-owner, single-artist auction for his KAWS toy collection. The results were record-breaking on many levels, including setting new world benchmarks for over 25 pieces. The sale is considered a watershed event within the art community.
